The Faith of an English Churchman

By ALBERT MITCHELL.

"We recommend this book to our readers. It contains the essential Evangelical truths which the present age sadly needs."—The Record.

In the Press

A History of the Evangelical Party in the Church of England

By the Rev. G. R. BALLEINE, M.A.

Price 3/6 (post 6d.) - - - Illustrated.

This republication at the present moment is particularly appropriate in view of the discussions connected with the Oxford Movement. The History has done much to make Churchmen of all schools recognise the position and true power of Evangelicals. Evangelical Churchmen are frequently so absorbed in the activities of the present, that they devote little time to the study of the work of their predecessors. They thus neglect one of the most useful assets in the splendid tradition set by the example of the Evangelical leaders in the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries. Mr. Balleine's History helps to repair this defect.

HIDING THEIR GREAT NEED

Those for whom the British Home and Hospital for Incurables works, and pleads, make no parade of their sore adversity. That is to be expected: they are all people of the middle class, men and women of education and refinement, bred to observe the reticences of life.

They are worthy of all the help kind hearts can render; a Home for life, or a pension for life—for they can help themselves no longer. Their long struggles to maintain health, strength, and independence have all been in vain. Will you help?

The Institution well deserves support. £60 is needed every day throughout the year to maintain the work in full efficiency.

Contributions will be gratefully acknowledged by EDGAR PENMAN, Secretary.

DECAY OF PASTORAL VISITATION.

The Rev. Canon Joynt, speaking at the Islington Clerical Conference this year, said :—

“I believe with all my heart that one of the most tragic things in the Church to-day is the gradual, but sure and certain decay of the habit of house-to-house visitation of the people.”

THE CHURCH PASTORAL-AID SOCIETY

for nearly 100 years has made grants to parishes where pastoral visitation is urgently needed, for the express purpose of carrying the Gospel

“TO EVERY MAN’S DOOR.”

The country needs such pastoral ministrations more to-day than ever before. This Society needs greatly increased support to make this possible.
