Their only way of making money was selling the milk from their cow, Bess. One morning, Jack's mother woke him up early. Jack thought about his mother. He thought about how happy she would be if they were rich. They could fix the roof, the windows, and the front door. Maybe they could buy a new cow! "Okay," said Jack. "Jack and the Beanstalk" is a folktale featured on ABC's Once Upon a Time. It was written by British author Benjamin Tabart in 1807 and was revised by English author Joseph Jacobs in 1890. Jack is a young lad living with his widowed mother. Their only means of income is a cow. When this cow stops giving milk one morning, Jack is sent to the market to sell it. On the way to the market he meets an old man who offers to give him "magic" beans in exchange for the cow. Jack has some magic beans! What will happen when they start to grow in his garden? Watch and find out!
Jack climbed the beanstalk. Jack saw a beautiful castle. He went inside. An enormous giant came into the room and sat down. He had a hen and a golden harp. Jack took the hen and the harp and started climbing down the beanstalk. Jack's mother chopped down the beanstalk and the giant crashed to the ground.
