The goal in 1960: The Making of the President is to claim a majority of electoral votes on Election Day. To do so, you must win states worth a larger combined electoral value than your opponent. Electoral votes are won by gaining State Support in individual states. This support is represented by cubes placed as state support into states. As only one player may have support cubes in a particular state at a time, Support will shift back and forth as the players battle over valuable states. Whichever player manages to have support cubes in a state at the end of the game claims that state's electors.

More importantly, White gives a great account of the what the country was like in 1960, while signaling, accurately, the great changes ahead. The story of the 1960 US Presidential election.
